

TOGAF® Poster Series #54

Information Flows Around the ADM

This poster summarizes the main information flows around the ADM. It does not cover every deliverable or artifact, but it is intended instead to give a feeling for the key information about the architecture and requirements to change it that are passed from one phase to another.

We have not included outputs to do with establishing architecture capability, to do with developing communications with stakeholders, or to do with governance.

Note that most of the work outputs from the EA team are produced in Phases A, B, C, D and E.
